May 5th, 2017

May is here and with it comes our end of the year preparations. Can you believe it? Time has flown by this year! We are busy finishing up our reading and math books. We will also start putting together our end of the year portfolios. This is a collection of your child's work that they have done throughout the year. In order to put these together I need each child to bring in a 1" or a 1 ½" 3 ring binder with a clear plastic sleeve on the front. If you need to see what I'm talking about I can show you a sample! I will be handing these out on the night of our kindergarten celebration, which will take place on June 6th. More information will follow about this at a later date.

This week we have been learning all about butterflies. We learned about the life cycle of a butterfly and learned that it is called metamorphosis. We made a book about the life cycle of a butterfly and they turned out great. In math we are learning how to count by 2's. This is something you can practice at home with your child.

We have a fun and busy week next week. The Book Fair is coming back! We will be going to the book fair on Monday and Wednesday. If you would like to send money with your child to buy books please send it on one of these days. Send it to school in a sealed baggie or envelope with the amount written on the front. We will place the receipt back into the envelope and into your child's backpack. The book fair will also be open after school all next week and you are welcome to take your child then, too.

There will be a vision screening next week on Thursday, May 11th. A form is going home today. If you would like your child to participate please return the form as soon as possible.

Have a great weekend!
